

Jan Langlo, Director

Jan Langlo is trained as a lawyer admitted to the Geneva bar, as well as a certified tax expert. He began his career as a tax lawyer with the law firm of Lenz & Staehelin, followed by Oberson & Associés, before joining the Pictet Group in 2007 as a legal and tax advisor. With an extensive experience in the field of international taxation, Jan Langlo joined the Association of Swiss Private Banks (ASPB) in January 2014 as Deputy Director.

He was then appointed Director of the ASPB in July 2015. In this position, he focuses on defending the interests of banks which specialize in wealth management. He is also Secretary-General of the Swiss Private Bankers Association.

He is a member of the Steering Committee of the Swiss Union of Liberal Professions, as well as of various working groups of economic associations and of the administration. He regularly speaks in seminars and conferences about banking issues.
